

It Was

It was once a cloud, floating high above the world

It was once a snowstorm, battling in the wind

It was once a pond, with lily pads and frogs

It was once a river, running down a mountain

It was once a waterfall, falling fast to the earth

It was once a lake, with blue rolling waves

It was once a sea, stretching far into the horizon

It is now a small dew drop, a pure, crystal, beauty